

Rock Creek Trail

Directions:

From Sandpoint, ID drive east on Hwy 200 into Montana. About 2 miles past the Noxon, MT bridge turn left (N) on Rock Creek Road #150. At about 5 miles turn right on 150A to trailhead.

Trail Description:

Rock Lake trail starts on an old mining road and is a low angle trail through an area frequented by bear. At about 2.5 miles the trail climbs moderately to a nice waterfall just below the lake. Be sure to stop and photograph this falls. The lake is a short walk further up an easy grade. There are a couple of campsites at the lake. To continue the hike further, hike the left side of the lake to the north end for great views of Ojibway Peak 7303'. With a little bushwacking a hiker can continue up towards St. Paul Pass. The upper sanctuary is calm and very scenic. This upper "trail" can take a hiker to St. Paul Lake.

This information gleaned from and more information about hiking trails in the region is available at www.TrailsNW.com